Apology and Forgiveness Tool

Adult modeling is critical to our children learning. Try these ways of supporting your child's learning at home:

- Be open to when you feel badly about how you have treated your child and offer a sincere apology.
- Let your children know that you forgive them when they have apologized.
- Help your children think about how they feel when they have been mean to someone, and consider whether they are ready to apologize.

Personal power is found when a child can make a mistake without feeling a loss of self-worth.
